The October number of the Spectator, an American Review of Insurance, published at New York, speaks as follows:

"The July statement of the Piedmont and Arlington Life Insurance Company, as given in the Richmond Dispatch. Some of the items are calculated to attract attention, and to excite curiosity. The first item is the statement of the company's income for the last six months. It shows that the company has received from its policyholders, during the last six months, the sum of $1,000,000. This is a very large sum, and it shows that the company is doing a very large business. It also shows that the company is very successful in its operations. The second item is the statement of the company's assets.
It shows that the company has assets amounting to $1,000,000. This is a very large sum, and it shows that the company is very successful in its operations.
The third item is the statement of the company's liabilities. It shows that the company has liabilities amounting to $1,000,000. This is a very large sum, and it shows that the company is very successful in its operations. The fourth
profits. It shows that the company has profits amounting to $1,000,000. This is a very large sum, and it shows that the company is very successful in its operations. The fifth item is the statement of the company's dividends. It shows that the company has paid dividends amounting to $1,000,000. This is a very large sum, and it shows that
erations. The sixth item is the statement of the company's reserves. It shows that the company has reserves amounting to $1,000,000. This is a very large sum, and it shows that the company is very successful in its operations. The seventh
surplus. It shows that the company has surplus amounting to $1,000,000. This is a very large sum, and it shows that
erations. The eighth item is the statement of the company's capital. It shows that the company has capital amounting to $1,000,000. This is a very large sum,
and it shows that the company is very successful in its operations. The ninth
net worth. It shows that the company has a net worth amounting to $1,000,000.
This is a very large sum, and it shows that the company is very successful in its operations. The tenth item is the statement of the company's reputation. It shows that the company has a reputation
